

CHINESE REPUBLIC HAS A PRESIDENT

DR. SUN YAT SEN NOTED REVOLUTIONIST FIRST HEAD SELECTED.

WILL TAKE UP DUTIES

Report Causes Considerable Excitement in Many Sections of The Flowery Kingdom Today.

Shanghai, Dec. 29.—Immediately following the receipt of word from Nanking that he had been elected president of the republic of China, Dr. Sun Yat Sen, leader of the revolution, today issued a statement to the Associated Press with the request that it be transmitted to his friends in the U. S. "I consider it my duty to accept the presidency. My policy will be to secure peace and a stable government by the promptest methods possible. My single aim is to insure the peace and contentment of the millions of my fellow countrymen. "The news of the Dr. Sun Yat Sen election to the presidency by the delegates of the eighteen provinces of China proper at their conference at Nanking spread with extraordinary rapidity among the population. Crowds made their way to the house in the French concession in which he has resided since his arrival here. When he appeared he was greeted with an enthusiastic ovation. The city shows evidence of great activity. Members of the provisional cabinet which was formed by Dr. Sun Yat Sen on Nov. 15 and delegates who were sent by both the imperialists and the revolutionists to the peace conference which is now regarded as having lapsed passed frequently along the streets on their way past Dr. Sun Yat Sen's quarters. It is believed that the president will immediately demand the withdrawal of the so called imperial troops from their strategic position in order to avoid the possibility of conflict with the troops of the Republican government. As soon as this has been effected the armistice now existing with the extended and the Manchurian troops will be ordered to lay down their arms or to enter the service of the republic. As soon as military arrangements have been completed negotiations will be opened on the subject of the pension to be offered to the former princes and Manchurian governors.

Dr. Sun Yat Sen. Dr. Sun Yat Sen who has been elected by the delegates of the 18 provinces of China proper as first president of the Chinese republic is a native of Canton. He was educated at Honolulu where his father was in business and later studied medicine at Canton, afterwards engaging in practice there. He has been connected with the revolutionary movement for a considerable time and took a most radical point of view. He was one of the promoters of a plot to seize the city of Canton in 1895. The plan of the conspirators were discovered and several of them were put to death but Dr. Sun Yat Sen escaped and reached the British colony of Hongkong where he became a British subject.

He was heard of next in England and in the United States where he delivered a series of lectures in order to convert the Chinese students to his revolutionary principles. While he was on a lecture tour in England in 1900 he was enticed into the Chinese legation where he was told that he was on Chinese territory and would be deported to Peking. This, however, was prevented as he claimed British citizenship and was set free. At a later period he visited Japan and stirred up the Chinese there to revolutionary ideas.

Blame Japanese. "Ten years, China, Dec. 29.—It is asserted by members of the Chinese legation at Urumqi that Russia is responsible for the virtual domination of Manchuria by the Japanese.

The charge is made in the same quarters that the Russian military consul at Urumqi has been pursuing the same policy in Mongolia as was formerly carried on by Afghanistan with the same purpose of making Mongolia a buffer state and prevent the Japanese from extending Mukden in Manchuria.

General Hozarth in command of the Russian troops at Harbin has reportedly denied that Russia has ulterior aims in Mongolia but admits that the region in the buffer state as Afghanistan shows a buffer state on the northwestern frontier of India.

TAFT CONSIDERING POSSIBLE MANAGER FOR HIS CAMPAIGN?

President is Now Taking More Interest in Pre-Convention Stir—Important Position for Bannard?

New York, Dec. 29.—It was reported here today that President Taft soon would ask Otto T. Bannard, of this city, to accept an important position in connection with the campaign leading up to the republican national convention.

To Open Headquarters. President Taft has been urged for some time by republican leaders to take a deeper interest in the pre-convention campaign and at last, it is said that the President has consented that a Taft headquarters be opened in Washington at an early date.

Whether or not Mr. Bannard will take charge of these headquarters may depend upon the conference in his hold in Washington the early part of next week, in which the President, Mr. Bannard and Secretary Charles D. Miller will participate.

Hill or Bannard. The pressure of political business at the White House has been increasing steadily since the meeting of the republican national committee in Washington, Dec. 21, and it is said the opening of a headquarters has become necessary to divert the flow of visitors from all sections of the country.

There still exists the belief in political circles that Secretary Miller will be called upon to direct the campaign of Mr. Taft in the event of the latter's re-nomination; but there has been no definite decision to that effect. Mr. Bannard will accompany President Taft to Washington Saturday night, following the peace dinner in this city and will spend New Year's Day at the White House.

Last Trip Of Year. Washington, D. C., Dec. 29.—President Taft's last trip of the present year will take him to Philadelphia for a three hours stop and to dinner in New York and Brooklyn. The journey begins tomorrow morning and ends in Washington on Sunday. Secretary of State Knox will accompany the President to New York and Senator Penrose will be his guest as far as Philadelphia.

In Philadelphia the President will attend the John Wanamaker fiftieth anniversary and jubilee celebration; will visit the offices of the morning newspapers and in New York will be a guest of the Citizens' Peace Dinner, and "look in" on the dinner of the University Club of Brooklyn.

HERO MEDAL NOT A PASSPORT TO A JOB

Man Who Rescued Two Girls From Drowning And Was Awarded Carnegie Medal, Destitute and Penniless.

Washington, Dec. 29.—Hero medals are not passports to employment, nor are promises of a $100,000 reward tender for board and lodging. With this thought in mind Calvin C. Williams, once a hotel clerk at Spring Lake, N. J., who he rescued two girls from drowning two years ago, is walking the streets of Washington destitute and penniless. In his breast pocket he carries a bronze medal awarded him last May by the Carnegie Hero fund, and with a letter promising $100,000 reward for a "worthy purpose to be approved by the executive committee."

Williams, who is fifty-one years old, has been trying for several months to obtain the money to supply his needs and start a small business, but thus far he says his appeals have not been answered. Friends are endeavoring to urge the Carnegie commission to expedite action in his behalf.

New York, Dec. 29.—Arrangements completed for the citizens' peace dinner to be given at the Waldorf tomorrow night indicate that the affair will be the most notable of its kind that New York has seen in a long time. The program will be the first speaker of the evening, and will be followed by Andrew Carnegie. Cardinal Gibbons is to pronounce the invocation. AGAIN TALK ROAD TO THE STATE CAPITAL

Jamesville on Route of the Proposed Chicago and Wisconsin Valley Surveys.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 29.—A surveying party will start from Stevens Point, Wis., next Tuesday to lay out the route to Merrill, Wis., for the proposed Interurban railroad to be built northward from Jamesville by the Chicago and Wisconsin Valley Railroad Company. This statement was made today by General Manager J. E. Jones. Application for a certificate of authority to build the line was filed recently with the state railroad commission and a hearing will be held on January 20th.

Construction material for the Portage-Madison division will be delivered along the route this winter, said Mr. Jones. This section of the line to be built in 1912, together with the branch lines from Madison to Prairie du Sac and from Portage to Baraboo and a southern power plant. Middleton, a village near Madison, is the probable site for this plant. The northern power plant will be built near Waupun.

The 1912 program calls for the construction of the division from Madison to Jamesville, and that for 1914 the section from Portage to the northern terminus—Merrill.

One mile of the track was laid last fall in the eastern part of the city of Madison.

BELIEVE BOY KILLED AND CORPSE HIDDEN

Missing Youth Thought To Have Been Murdered in the Woods by Unknown Enemy.

Rhineland, Wis., Dec. 29.—The family of Alfred Rommel of Wood Lake, who was lost in the woods in November, now have hopes of discovering his remains and they are convinced that the boy was murdered. A man named Harris who calls himself "The Human Magnet" went to Wood Lake and offered to find the boy's body. His offer was accepted and with Frank Haas and John Wallace he went into the woods, carrying a knife he had bought in Wood Lake which he called "Divining Rod." The trail led down into the forest and at one spot the knife dropped downward. Harris told his companions to dig there and they dug down the surface. They came to a blood covering a space two by three feet and, looking at the blade of the knife they claimed they could see the reflection of two men running away.

Harris then took his companions to another place where the same performance was repeated and where the knife showed the same wonderful depiction. Harris stated he was sure the boy was buried near that spot, but he had to go to California on urgent business. He promised to return later and complete the discovery.

The men accompanying Harris are firm in their belief that the boy was murdered and that they saw pictures of the murderers in the blade of the knife.

INHERITANCE TAXES TO REPLENISH FUNDS

Substantial Amount Will Be Added to Treasury Several Funds of Which Are Running Short.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 29.—The state treasury, several funds of which are running short, will be replenished next week by about $200,000 in inheritance taxes, collections of the last quarter of 1911. About one-half of this amount will be remitted from this (Dane) county, which receives inheritance taxes from foreign estates.

On account of the constant expenditures for the new capital, it will be necessary to draw upon the state deposits in Milwaukee this week for about $70,000 to tide over until the inheritance taxes come in.

ROOSEVELT OPINION OF RUSSIAN TREATY

WRITES ON ABROGATION OF THE TREATY BETWEEN RUSSIA AND THE UNITED STATES.

PUNGENT REMARKS

However Says That Congress Did Perfectly Right in Acting as They Did But Urges Other Treaties Be Amended.

New York, Dec. 29.—The following editorial on "The Russian Treaty, Arbitration and Hypocrisy," by Theodore Roosevelt, appears in the current issue of the Outlook: "I cordially approve the action taken by Congress in abrogating the Russian treaty, because men must vote and act on the situation as it actually confronts them; and in the actual event Congressmen have but two alternatives, namely, to abrogate the treaty, or to pretend to the continuance of conditions which have become intolerable to our National self-respect, and which represent a continuing wrong, especially to American citizens of Jewish faith.

"I will believe that in no serious matter it would have been well first to endeavor to secure a decision by the Hague Court on the interpretation of the existing treaty. I am confident that such a decision would, if necessary, have been in our favor; and if so, it would have enabled Russia to retire from an untenable position with good grace and no loss of self-respect—an object that should always be held in view in dealing with any foreign nation with which at any time we have difficulties; while if the decision as to the interpretation of the clause in question had been adverse to us, we would then at once have abrogated the treaty, and have been clearly right in so doing. This was the position held by that distinguished diplomat Mr. Oscar Straus, but no movement had been made by either nation looking towards any other method of settling the matter than the one actually adopted. Congress was confronted by the simple fact that unless the treaty were abrogated conditions would remain as they now are; and under the circumstances, Congress acted wisely and properly in declaring for the abrogation.

"But this action was taken while the universal arbitration treaties are pending in the Senate. These treaties are now being championed as being the kind we want to enter into with all nations, and as supplementing the existing arbitration treaties which we have with almost all nations, including Russia as well as England and France. These treaties, if ratified by the Senate unamended, will explicitly promise, will explicitly pledge the honor and good faith of the American nation, to arbitrate precisely such questions as that which at this very moment we announce that we will not endeavor to arbitrate in the case of Russia. Under these circumstances, to ratify the general arbitration treaties would put the American people in an attitude of peculiarly contemptible hypocrisy, and would rightly pose us as the deniers of all thinking mankind; for we would put ourselves in the position of making sweeping and insincere promises, impossible of performance, at the very time when by our own actions we showed that we would certainly not keep such promises, nor translate them into action. I believe that we can normally arbitrate the question of the interpretation of a treaty, even if only as the preliminary to adopting the very serious action of denouncing such a treaty. But I do not believe that we can arbitrate, with the intention of abiding by the arbitration, such questions as treating all our citizens alike, without regard to their creed, in the matter of passports, or such questions as the admission of immigrants, the most or the refusal by the States to pay bonds, or many other similar matters. In short I do not believe that we afford to arbitrate questions of vital interest and National honor, or questions of settled American governmental policy.

"Moreover, the attitude we are now taking as regards the abrogation of the Russian treaty shows beyond possibility of doubt that if we were so foolish or so timid as to agree, as an abstract matter, by general arbitration treaties, to arbitrate such questions, we should instantly repudiate the agreement whenever a concrete case arose in which any considerable number of our citizens took an active interest. Under such circumstances to proceed with the ratification of the

WOULD CLEAR NAME OF CHARGES MADE

Rev. Charles M. Brewer Implicated in Explosion of Bridge by Quirk Confession, in Statement.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 29.—A congregation in Quannah, Texas, was hearing Rev. Charles M. Brewer preach a sermon on "Practical Christianity" at the time of the blowing up of the government bridge at Port Riley, Kansas, in which the pastor's name was implicated through a confession of Private Michael Quirk, according to a statement made here today by Rev. Dr. Brewer.

The minister was passing through this city on his way to Port Riley, where he says, he will investigate the conditions leading up to his arrest and demand an explanation of the government officials.

"My sole mission in life is to clear my name of this awful charge made against me. It is absolutely unwarranted, as the federal authorities found out after they had investigated it. But that does not satisfy me. I want to know who was responsible for mixing my name in the dynamite plot."

Rev. Brewer's arrest followed a confession by private Quirk in which he stated that he had met the pastor, formerly chaplain at the fort, riding in an automobile with a woman, and that Quirk had asked him to join them in blowing up the big bridge over the Kansas river.

"There was some personal malice in connecting my name with the plot," the pastor continued. "When the bridge was blown up I was preaching a sermon in Quannah, Texas."

CRIME NOT CHARGED PROVEN BY EVIDENCE

60 GAY ATTORNEYS FOR PACKERS IN MAKING OBJECTION TO EVIDENCE INTRODUCED.

OBJECT IS EXPLAINED

Special Counsel for Government Says They Will Try to Prove Plot to Commit Crime Charged in Indictment.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—Attorneys John Barton Payne and John S. Miller, representing the defendants in the packers' case today argued that the evidence of the operations of the subsidiary companies used to market certain by-products should be excluded for the reason that it tended to prove a crime not charged in the indictment.

No Connection. They declared that the prices charged by the distributing company had no connection with the uniform system of figuring the cost of the animals slaughtered. Judge Carpenter reserved his decision until the testimony complained of is brought up again in the trial.

Court's Views. "As I understand it, the government charges that these selling companies are part of the general scheme of the combination," said Judge Carpenter. "The proof of the combination of another crime may be incidental to showing that all these subsidiary selling concerns are directly connected with the issue in this case."

Should Be Allowed. "Acting under that theory, the government, I think, would be permitted to show the connection between these selling companies and the part of the parent organization."

At the request of the court counsel for the government outlined what they expected to prove by the testimony regarding the operations of the Kenwood and the Acme Trading Companies.

What They Will Show. "We shall offer no proof for the sole purpose of discrediting or casting discredit on these defendants under some technical theory that is immaterial," said Special Counsel Butler. "We shall prove there was a plot among these defendants to commit the crime charged in the indictment."

Merely A Link. "We shall show that the Kenwood Company was one of the links in the chain used to violate the law. In proving these big commercial concerns we are obliged to place these links together to prove our case. This evidence is material to prove the plot. We should not be cross-examined by the defense at this time regarding the details of our proof."

Not Responsible. "If, in pursuing this circumstantial chain, criminal acts crop out which are charged in the indictment, we cannot help it. The possibility of this should not prevent us from proving our case."

Special Counsel Butler said the government expected to prove that the Kenwood Company dissolved in 1905 and the business of marketing the oleo products of the combination was taken over by the Swift Wool Company.

Veeder On Stand. Albert H. Veeder on the stand today admitted that the Swift Wool Company succeeded the Kenwood Company in 1905 for the sale of the oleo products of the combination. This concluded the direct examination of Mr. Veeder.

Tells Facts. Chicago, Dec. 29.—On cross examination Albert Veeder in the trial of the ten Chicago meat packers today described the collapse of the "billion dollar merger" of the packing interest planned by Armour, Swift, Morris and Cudahy in 1902.

Has Given Up. He said the formation of the giant corporation was abandoned at the close of a conference held in New York shortly before Christmas 1903, between the promoters and Jacob H. Schiff manager of Cuhn Loeb & Co., in which plans for financing the project were discussed.

Big Loan. A loan of 90 million dollars was developed and later this was reduced to 60 millions and the capitalization reduced from close to the billion dollar mark to 525 millions.

FINNISH TEMPERANCE SOCIETY SEEKS TO ENFORCE THE LAWS. Duluth, Minn., Dec. 29.—The Finnish Temperance Society of the Mesaba Range will make an effort to have the saloons in that district required to observe the state law as to hours of closing. AT THEATER

"A GERMAN GENTLEMAN."

The success of "A German Gentleman" is unquestioned. Its novel stage setting and the entire production will be brought to Myers Theatre opening New Year's matinee, for 4 nights—Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, complete. Mr. Frank Whittier has written a comedy drama that will live a long time, and the musical portion of the program is on a level that is not to be outdone in that plot so intensely, that it seems this young author-composer has struck an entirely new vein in stage craft, as there is nothing like it now on the boards. Its success in other cities has caused theatre managers to ask for an immediate "return date" if possible, a condition brought about only by the play's intrinsic merit enhanced by the positive demands of all theatre patrons who desire to witness another production of this really interesting artistic domestic comedy.

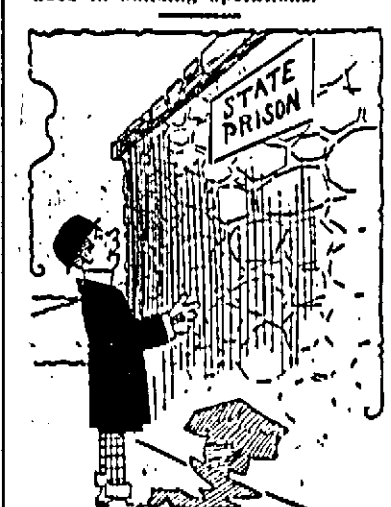

The play will be given here with the same careful detail and attention to scenic surroundings, the same brilliant pulsating company as has been seen elsewhere. A very liberal scale of prices has been announced and for a wholesome evening's enjoyment of drama, comedy and music, nothing ever offered in this theatre will surpass "A German Gentleman." As said before, the musical portion of the program is part and parcel of the author's story, thus necessitating, of course, very brief intermissions between acts. The advisability of securing seats early in advance is respectfully suggested.

HOWE'S TRAVEL FESTIVAL.

Lyman H. Howe maintains at his head office a crew of "emergency" photographers. These camera men, like a fire engine or wreck train, are always ready to rush at a moment's notice to scenes of great human interest whenever or wherever they may occur. The advantage of such an ever alert organization was well demonstrated when the first news of the terrible flood at Austin, Pa., was flashed to the world. As soon as the magnitude of the calamity became apparent, Mr. Howe's photographers were racing to Austin. They arrived there even before the newspaper reporters and long before any other photographers. The flood had subsided just before their arrival. They planted their cameras in the very center of the narrow little valley. From this point they photographed panoramic views showing the Famous Makers of Rugs.

In the cities of Harput and Sivas are several firms engaged in the manufacture of rugs of the best grade and quality. In Sivas there are 600 looms, with about 1,500 operatives, and in Harput about one-third that number of looms and operatives. Nearly all the output of the Sivas looms is sold in Europe, while the output of the Harput looms is shipped to America.

A New Discovery.

One of the sensations of the twentieth century is Moritol Rheumatism Powder. A boon to every sufferer. The best known remedy for rheumatism in all its forms. Ask those who have tried it. Reliable Drug Co.

Weather Conditions.
The storm that is passing off to the northeast over the Gulf of St. Lawrence and Nova Scotia has continued to cause high winds on the lower Lakes and along the north Atlantic coast. Fair cool weather prevails in the Ohio Valley and southern Appalachian mountain region under the influence of the area of high atmospheric pressure that occupies that part of the country.
The barometric depression in the Platteau region has moved a little further to the southeastward and has thrown off a secondary depression, which is now advancing over the plains and the Missouri valley. It will probably cause snow in this vicinity tonight and Saturday. Light snows have fallen all along the northern border from Wisconsin to the Pacific, and along the Pacific coast from Washington to southern California. The area of high atmospheric pressure in western Canada is drifting slowly eastward. It is still accompanied by extremely low temperatures, the lowest being 42 below zero at Prince Albert. Temperatures of 13 to 20 below prevail in North Dakota.

Self-Made.
A drunken congressman said to Horace Greeley one day: "I am a self-made man." "Then, sir," replied the philosophical Horace, "the fact relieves the Almighty of a great responsibility."

No Banked On My Ability

"You go to Dr. Richards and have those teeth out, and if he hurts you any I will eat your hat."

So said a man to his friend who was in need of dental work.

This man had been in my chair and spoke from experience.

The friend took his advice. I extracted some of his offending teeth, and fixed up his mouth generally.

Today he is one of my boasting friends.

You will be one also.

TAKE NEW APPEAL IN MONAHAN CASE TO SUPREME COURT

Attorneys For Fairbanks-Morse Company Will Appeal Case Already Heard Before Court on New Count.

Attorney Jos. D. Doe of Milwaukee, of the firm of Doe and Bellhorn, attorneys for the Fairbanks-Morse Company of Detroit in the case of J. H. Monahan vs. Fairbanks-Morse, was in the court house yesterday afternoon to secure papers in the case which will be appealed by the company to the supreme court.

This case has already been before the supreme court where it was appealed by the plaintiff in the circuit court where it was tried during the February term. The appeal was decided by the supreme court in favor of the appellant, Monahan, the court declaring that the verdict of the jury in the lower court giving Monahan $8,000 damages was correct and that the court had no right to set aside the verdict and hold the plaintiff guilty of contributory negligence as a matter of law.

The grounds for appeal on the part of the defendant company who lost by the first decision of the supreme court are that errors were made in the trial. The first appeal was merely taken on the grounds that the action of the judge in setting aside the verdict of the jury was not called for, and not to review the facts in the case.

Monahan originally brought suit for $25,000 against the Detroit company by which he was employed, for injuries sustained in a whirling shaft of the machinery of the plant. The accident occurred over a year ago and the case was fiercely fought out in the circuit court in the last February term. Jeffris and Mount were the attorneys for Monahan.

ENGINE HITS CAR; MOTORMAN INJURED

Simcon Burdick Hurt When St. Paul Switch Engine Hits Trolley Car On Academy Street Crossing.

Motorman Simcon Burdick was rendered unconscious and conductor Kenneth Murphy and four passengers were badly shaken up when the car in which they were riding was struck by a St. Paul switch engine on the Academy street crossing about seven o'clock last evening.

Mr. Burdick was thrown from the car and was badly bruised. Examination by physicians revealed the fact that no bones were broken and aside from numerous painful bruises his condition was not serious today. The car was going toward the downtown district and the conductor gave the signal to cross the tracks, not noticing the engine which was advancing at a rather fast rate of speed. The car was struck and thrown upright at right angles with its track on the Northwestern track.

None of the occupants were injured to any extent, except the motorman who was thrown violently out of the car. The escape without fatalities is considered miraculous. A force of men was sent out at once from the car barns and the car was replaced on the track within an hour after the accident and traffic resumed according to the regular schedule.

COMMISSION FORM IS DISCUSSED BY CLUB

Clinton Public Interest Club Held Interesting Debate on New System of City Government.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Clinton, Dec. 29.—The Public Interest Club met last evening in the parlors of the Congregational church. Thirty-four men sat down to a most excellent supper served by Messrs. E. P. Seaman, N. R. Buckley, F. W. Harrold and A. W. Miller, after which F. J. Barker gave a very interesting and instructive talk on the commission form of government for cities and villages, by taking the affirmative and advancing the idea that small villages be governed by a commission of three officers who receive pay for their services, namely, clerk, treasurer and assessor.

Non. R. S. Jones followed, taking the negative, claiming centralization of power was un-American and dangerous and would lead eventually to the most corrupt political rings possible to conceive. Mayor W. W. Dalton took the same stand as Mr. Jones and opposing the recall and referendum. C. C. Smith supported Mr. Barker and to support the claim that centralization of power was a good thing and referred his hearers to the fact that the greatest businesses of this country were under control of a single man at the head of each.

A. A. Cleveland and F. M. Barron made short remarks in closing. It proved a most excellent and instructive evening.

A Look Forward

IF we had the power to peer into the year that is ahead and see what is in store for us, most of us would take a look. The lure of the unknown is strong. The desire to know the future is the trait upon which fortune-tellers and palm-readers and astrologers bank, and they draw good, fat incomes from it. And few of us, if told we might know exactly what would happen to us in 1912, would fail to take advantage of the opportunity.

And yet to a large extent most of us can know what 1912 has in store for us. Life is not such a matter of chance as we seem to think. Look back over 1911. How much of the unexpected and uncontrolled entered into it? Generally speaking, it is rather true that we reap what we sow; or, to put it more popularly, we get what is coming to us.

It is rather generally conceded nowadays, that of the two, thought is the more powerful agent than action. In the past we believed that what we did was what counted. But we are coming to see, that it is what we think that counts; that thought must precede action, if the action is to accomplish much. Therefore we can, to a large extent, know what the coming year has for us, if we will sit down quietly, and deliberately plan what it shall bring us.

Although the making of New Year resolutions is, in this inconclusive age, going out of fashion, there's more than a bit of sentiment back of the practice. The mind was cutting the road for the feet to walk in; and because the mind went first and prepared the way, the feet found it much easier to follow. So, though we may not today say we are making New Year resolutions, because we may not wish to appear sentimental or old-fashioned, nevertheless, if we are wise, we will give a little thought to what we want this New Year to bring us.

We should look ahead to what we want to accomplish in 1912, and then deliberately plan ways to arrive at the desired ends. But most carefully of all should we look to see if what we want to accomplish is worth while. And in looking at this, we should take the perspective of the years, not of just the present time and present environment.

We should try to see 1912 as part of eternity, and what we are doing now as being done for all time. We may not believe in immortality or in a future life. But even if we do not, if we will look at 1912 not as merely a calendar year, but as part of the eternal, we will live it more worthily, and consequently more happily. For there is something in man, even though he may try to crush it, that makes him happy when he is living rightly.

So to a certain extent, we can plan 1912. We can know the future by making the future. And if we will plan it along the line of character development, if we will plan it in line with the great fundamental truths of the universe, it will bring us many beautiful and precious things.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

MY CAT has two kittens—a little lady tiger kitty, and a sturdy little black boy kitten.

Usually this brother and sister play together very happily in their basket by the fire, but once in a while, I am disturbed by hearing a most terrible howling. And the cause, I have found, is almost always this—the little tiger kitty has picked a quarrel with the black kitten. Now the black kitten is inclined to be rather quiet and ultra peaceable, but once he is aroused, he fights for all that's in him, and being larger and sturdier than his sister, is soon punishing her severely. Whereupon little sister promptly shows the white feather and sets up a caterwauling which she knows will probably bring the mother kitty or me to her aid.

Do you know this illogical and unworthy custom of my tiger kitty always makes me think of the equally illogical and unworthy custom of some of her superiors of the same sex?

Surely you know what I mean. The lack of logic, justice, and sense of fair play shown by the woman who asks to be put on an equal footing with men, and then resents it when he treats her as an equal.

I think the tiger kitty symbolizes the woman who claims her right to go into office to do work, which used to be done exclusively by men, and then wants in addition to the rights of a man the special privileges of a woman.

I think my kitten symbolizes the woman who enters some profession, or artistic field as a competitor with men, and then is satisfied, or even anxious to have her work judged with leniency, because she is a woman. Agnes Repplier has a very stinging essay on this subject, in which she justly rebukes the woman who does not expect that her work should be fairly and squarely compared with men's work and adjudged good or bad on this basis, but is satisfied to have it called good "considering."

And now let me leave a loophole for my friends, the anti-suffragists, I want to say what I think the kitten does NOT symbolize.

She does not stand for the woman who wants the vote, and yet still wants to be treated chivalrously by men, to have her physical weakness considered and respected.

It is one of the oldest and most common anti-suffrage arguments that if a woman gets the vote, she must not expect to have men give up their seats in the street car, or in other ways show her courtesy any longer.

To me this argument seems like the most absolute balderdash. Woman does not assume in asking for the vote that she is man's physical equal. She simply assumes that, insofar as the qualifications necessary to make her a voter are concerned, she is, or can soon be educated to be man's equal. This matter has nothing whatever to do with her physical qualifications or her need of chivalry.

A man would rise to give an old, sick or lame man a seat in a street car. And yet all these men are voters. The fact that they have the right to vote, does not deprive them of the privilege of being treated with kindness and consideration on account of their physical weakness.

In claiming her ability to do the same work as man, woman places herself on the same level of competition so far as that work goes and I think should ask no quarter in the struggle, but I do not see why either the fact that she wants to help govern herself should deprive her of man's courtesy and consideration in other relations of life.

I am ashamed of my own sex when it raises its weakness as a white feather and demands special privileges in a struggle which it has entered, with the declaration that it was willing to fight on equal terms.

I am ashamed of the other sex, when it makes woman's demand for justice, and her desire to do a man's work, if that is what she is fitted for, a pretext to deny her chivalry, courtesy, consideration, and protection, when her physical inferiority demands those.

UP-TO-DATE HOUSEKEEPING.

Trays and Furnishings. Inlaid Crotonne. Uses of Fillet Crochet.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

An observing person once wrote that "to the masculine mind things on a tray are unsatisfying; but to the feminine body they are as the manna from heaven." But even the man, if he is a connoisseur with an appetite, welcomes a well appointed tray. Therefore in home is properly furnished unless there are plenty of trays of all sizes. The ten cent Japanese tray has its place as well as the silver tray in all its elegance.

The woman who found a crotonne lined tray among her presents this year was indeed happy and she who did not find one and cannot afford to buy, may like to try her hand at making one. Take a dark wood picture frame about one and one-quarter inches wide and remove the back. Clean the glass thoroughly and lay on a piece of handsome crotonne to fit neatly. To give it the latest touch place a small ebony edged doily exactly in the center before laying on the crotonne. Now put on the back and over this glue a piece of felt neatly allowing it to come close to the edge. In the middle of each end fasten a handle such as can be bought at any large hardware store.

These trays cost in the stores all the way from a dollar for a tiny one scarcely larger than a saucer to the largest sizes at eight to ten dollars. Some old trays of this kind are long and narrow and are used for holding two or three cups or glasses.

For afternoon tea service a polished mahogany tray with rim and handles is the correct selection. For the sick room choose one made entirely of wood having a rim deeper at the middle of the ends where openings cut out, serve for convenient and safe handles. If possible do not take a tray of enamelled ware to a sick person. Although it is sanitary and has its place in hospital service where it is in constant use, in the home it is almost repelling to the invalid.

It is convenient to have tray furnishings kept for that purpose alone and at the ten cent stores are found that are attractive and of just the right size. Above this inexpensive outfit it is possible to expend a good sum in fine china made especially for tray use. There are special sets made for sick room service also for breakfast.

The cloth or doily in a tray is an important part of its furnishings if it is not covered with glass. For round trays there is nothing better than a cloth made just to fit and finished with scalloped padded slightly and buttonholed. For the square or oblong tray drawn work or the durable imported flannel embroidery is always in good taste for they are good looking after all is better than good linen with a fairly deep hem simply hem stitched.

Much embroidery is entirely lost on a tray cloth which is partially covered when in use. If such decoration is added place it at the ends and always in white.

The women who can crochet evenly need not regret too keenly that she cannot buy expensive flannel work or the embroidery worked over drawn threads. By using a suitable number of linen thread she can copy cross stitch patterns, or designs from old books on embroidery for this is an early form of needlework.

Hand of insertion for towels, tray cloths or small table covers, when made of this flannel work with its exact squares, are much appreciated both for durability and beauty. This work is not to be classed with ordinary crocheted edgings and insertions and must be done evenly.

The Kitchen Cabinet

IT IS not hardships that make men brave and women heroic. It is the ideas which they mix with their daily bread and butter. —Henderson.

A WORD TO THE COOK.

Do you have a well-defined plan for the meals of the day?

Do you try to balance the meals so that there is never an overabundance of any one food principle, like starchy foods, meats or sweets?

Do you plan your menus in regard to the individuals served? For example, the office worker and the out-of-door worker need a quite different menu, as does the growing child and the invalid.

Do you plan when you are making a custard to prepare enough to make a salad dressing, too? This is easily done by leaving out the sugar and flavoring until the custard is cooked, then add sugar and flavoring and you have a custard to serve as a sauce or a floating island, and to the remainder add salt, mustard and pepper and you have a salad dressing, with but the preparation of one.

Do you study the principles of cookery and enjoy your work, realizing that it is a dignified work, or do you call yourself a drudge? "As a man thinketh in his heart, so he is."

When using cooking dishes if they are washed at once, not allowing them to stand, they will wash much easier and other work that follows will not be hindered.

Coffee is much improved, if not freshly ground, to put into the dry pot and shake over the fire until thoroughly hot.

When buying soap it is economy to get it in large quantities, as one gets more for the money, and soap that is stored and dried will last much longer.

It is a wonderful help in an emergency to have a few canned foods on hand, such as canned clams, to be made into a delicious chowder with a few minutes' work, or canned soups of different kinds are quickly prepared, and there is nothing more satisfying after a cold ride or for a late supper than a cup of steaming hot soup.

There is no bread, how well prepared, that tastes quite as good as home-made bread. To many housekeepers who are cook and housemaid, bread-making is a great burden, but with the advent of the bread-mixer, the disagreeable part of bread-making is eliminated. The bread is mixed at night, when the man of the house might turn the mixer for exercise, and in the morning it is all ready to mix again, and then rise in the loaves. If for no other reason than cleanliness, the bread-mixer pays for itself.

Nellie Maxwell.

Household Philosopher.

"Strange what a difference there is," said the household philosopher, "between things we need and things we want. There are many things we need in the house, but never can find the money for, while somehow we can always find the money for things we want that we personally fancy."

One Cause of Failure.

The man who has an exaggerated idea of his own importance generally is a failure because of his inability to get other people to accept his own estimate of himself.

Thought for Today

By MRS. ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE.

MOVING PICTURES.

WHAT did you see at Moving Pictures today?" I asked Phil. "All that happened on earth last week," he answered enthusiastically. The wonders of science, the streets of Paris, the Revolution in China, the last American Baseball Game, all for five cents! What wonder that, as Mr. Collier, President of the National Board of Censorship, says, motion pictures carry the richness and stimulus of the theatre into millions of lives, hitherto untouched by the dramatic appeal, and that they attract all classes of people, including those who do not go to lectures, church or settlement, who live more intensely, more broadly, during the motion picture hour than during any other moment of the day.

As has been said elsewhere, moving pictures instruct and entertain the father and mother as well as the children. No unity of language is needed to understand them. Native and foreigner, rich and poor, cultivated and uneducated, are on common ground. They are an ideal agency of a more social, democratic and neighborly community spirit.

We should disassociate moving pictures from the "cheap theatre" idea. A moving picture degrades or uplifts, according to its theme, not its price. A canvass of three cities in Minnesota showed that during the school year $80,000 was expended by public school children at moving picture theatres. Let this tax, now falling chiefly upon people of small means, be expended on moving pictures for the schools.

The University of Wisconsin is including moving pictures in its educational plan of Extension work. St. Paul has installed moving pictures in the public schools. Why should not every city and every public school be equipped with this "folk-institution," not only to instruct the children in geography, biology and history, but to bring to all the people entertainment, instruction and opportunity to use their leisure hour pleasantly and constructively.

A DEBUTANTE FROCK OF LACE AND NET.

Almost silhouette-like in effect is the frock with a quilling of the material—this narrow, straight little frock which could be worn only by the slenderest of young figures. The material is a net of a very fine quality with insertions of rather heavy acorn lace, and this trifle is dropped over a petticoat of pale lavender finished at and lace and violet velvet.

LAUREL WREATH FOR PILLOW CASES OR FRAMES.

This wreath will be very effective on pillow cases or picture frames. The leaves are worked solid, and the dots are cyclops. The atoms are done in the outline stitch. Use mercerized cotton No. 26 for the embroidery.

Point Possibly Overlooked.

Western man advertises for a wife, and stipulates that the woman must be the widow of a man who has been hanged. The inference is that he wants to show up well in comparison with his former husband, evidently overlooking the fact that not every man who deserves it is hanged.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A SURPRISE FOR GARIBALDI.

By A. W. MACY.

After Garibaldi's great work of reuniting Italy was accomplished, his mind turned with longing to his little island home in Capri. He had been absent for two years, fighting the battles of his country, and he sought rest and quiet in his little cottage among the rocks. When he approached his home everything looked strange to him. He saw no object that he could recognize. Instead of the rough and tangled farm he had left, there were elegant grounds, splendid roads, lawns, gardens, flowers, shrubbery and paths everywhere. In the place of the humble cottage he had left stood a beautiful villa, all furnished with the finest and without. He was very much astonished, and could not imagine who or what had done all this, until in one of the rooms he came upon a full-length portrait of King Victor Emmanuel. Then he understood.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES.

Should a man with weak digestion use sugar?

Prefer fruit sugars as found in the banana, raisin and fruits in general. Use little cane sugar, and that preferably with fruits, not much with cereals or starches in general. Brown sugar or maple sugar is preferable to common candy and when eaten alone is not injurious. If there is a natural demand for it so that it will be promptly utilized.

What amount of boiled rice is sufficient for a meal?

That depends on the amount of work done, size of the body, its activity, number of meals eaten, age, etc. If one will eat very slowly he will not be likely to overeat, and when a tendency to overeat is discovered, find out what amount is sufficient and eat no more.

DELIGHTFUL DANCE AT ASSEMBLY HALL

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm G. Jeffris introduced Their Daughter, Miss Helen, to Society.

Last evening at Assembly Hall Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm G. Jeffris formally introduced their daughter, Miss Helen, to Janesville society, at one of the most charming dance receptions that has ever been held in the city.

The soft strains of Kroll's superb orchestra, the wonderful creations of the decorator's art that transformed the hall into a veritable fairy land, the handsome gowns of the women guests and the holiday spirit that pervaded the atmosphere, all added to the charm of the evening.

An innovation in entertainment was most noticeable by the introduction of a talented songstress, Letitia Gallaher of Chicago, possessed of a rich mezzo-soprano voice, who sang selections during the evening, accompanied by Kroll's orchestra.

Miss Gallaher has a delightful voice and her music was entirely free from any suggestion of effort, adding to the charm. Standing on the platform at the south end of the hall her voice was heard and enjoyed by all the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffris and Miss Letitia Gallaher, who were most tastefully stretched from a lattice work in the center of the ceiling to the walls and countless electric lights peeped forth from dainty red tulips, on side walls and across the ceiling.

In the balcony a lantern had been placed which was operated so as to throw various shades of light on the dancing floor beneath, when a portion of the other lights were turned off. Around the side walls a miniature forest of sweet smelling balsam and fir trees were arranged and the musicians' stand was banked in a similar manner, carrying out the idea of a winter scene in the north woods.

At the corners of the hall, wooded lawns had been created and a delightful effect was skillfully arranged at the entrance of the supper room where delicious refreshments were served. The much bowl was also found beneath a dainty canopy of fir and balsam. While the balcony was banked with trees and vines where many sat and enjoyed the wonderful music and watched the gay throng of dancers below.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffris and Miss Letitia received their guests at the right of the entrance to the hall and during the reception hour the orchestra gave a number of concert selections, Miss Gallaher delighting the audience with the first of her many songs, which she sang during the evening. It was truly a delightful party and the younger guests, home for the holidays, added

SCRAPS OF HUMOR

EVENED MATTERS UP.

Assistant—This quarter that girl gave you is bad.
The Fortune Teller—She's got nothing on me at that. The fortune I told her was bad, too.

A FATAL CASE.

Mrs. Gossippe—Is it true that your late husband was very absent-minded?
Mrs. Weeden—Yes; it caused his death. He went to sleep and forgot to wake up!

Unreasonable.

"Did your friend have a good time on his hunting trip?"
"No; didn't enjoy himself at all. The pulper got peevish about his shooting so many of them for game."

The Baseball Fan.

He waiteth grim.
Till spring shall come.
And bring the team.

A Vandal Declaration.
"I don't think I'll ever go to Europe again," said the patient looking man.
"Don't you enjoy the magnificent art galleries?"

"Oh, yes. But I got tired of curioes and antiques and things. Those old paintings they talk about so much—of course they're hand work and all that. But a good man with a moving picture machine nowadays could clean up twice as much work and make it three times as interesting."

Quite the Contrary.
The man rushed into the bank in such a hurry that he was temporarily speechless.

"Do you wish to cash the check?" demanded the paying teller, politely.
"No, I don't," snapped the man. "He got it out of me by a fraud. I don't want, no, sir, to cash the checks. I want to check the cash."

Inevitable.
"Why, she used to be a theatrical star, but since she has grown fat she's just an ordinary actress."

Nothing strange about that. Any astronomer will tell you that as stars increase in magnitude they decrease in brightness.

A Philosopher.
"I never quarrel with my wife," remarked a placid man.
"Where's she in a mood for strife, I simply rush the can."

Explained.
"What color is that very stylish suit of Anna's?"
"Electric blue."
"That accounts for its being so stunning."

A party of ladies and gentlemen from Happy Hollow, partially under

We understand, sustaining a fracture of a limb, Mrs. Ira Millmore and Mr. Booth were crossing the bridge on foot at the time and narrowly escaped being run over by the team.

D. D. Case, a railroad employe residing in this city, was the victim of a singular accident yesterday. He was in the locomotive cab, sitting on one of the side seats, when the fire of one of the driving wheels came off and struck the under side of the seat on which he was resting with considerable force.

Mr. Case was lifted from his position by the force of the concussion, thrown out of the cab and landed on the ground a couple of rods away from the track. He was but slightly injured, though he has only a confused recollection of his rapid transit through the air.

Pretty soon, my friend, you'll stand, with your hand across your heart, making solemn vows and grand, bidding all your sins depart. When the new year's whored in, then you always throw a fit, saying, "chance your self" to sin, and to virtue, "you are fit!" All your

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

The Police Force.

By Howard L. Rann.

The police force is a collection of able-bodied youths, who act as the goat for the administration whenever there is an outbreak of civic virtue. The administration has to have something to fall back on, and the police usually take the kick off. There is nothing softer than the life of a policeman. All he has to do is to walk about thirty miles a day and furnish top heads for the reform press. Whenever a policeman is set upon by a party of stowed citizens who have been out robbing a few flats, he is supposed to round them up with a flow of kind words and a blank cartridge or two, denounced as a coward and a brute. No policeman is allowed to strike a free-born American citizen until he has been manacled in both hands and has his nose tipped over at an angle of 45 degrees, when he may resist by reciting a few paragraphs from the penal code. If a policeman attempts to help a woman alight from a car he is liable to be arrested under the law against manhood, and if he chases a thug down a dark alley and opens a neat aperture in his collarbone, an infuriated mob will advise peaceful citizens to stay off the streets at night if the police close up a town until you can't buy butter milk on a bet, the politicians will get them. If they leave it wide open, the new mayor will reduce them in rank so fast that it will sound like throwing a flat iron down a small chute. The chief of police has nobody to please but the mayor and his conscience, and when the two conflict he is hard pressed. He is supposed to be able to read the mind of the mayor and tell when he means business or is pushing out a gentled four-flush for election purposes. When he guesses wrong, he is transferred to a precinct in the lumber yard district and instructed to see that nobody steals the river front. It is a gay life and pays almost as well as working on the section.

The Skin and Not the Blood.
Until recently it has been a generally accepted theory that eczema was a disease of the blood. Scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is positively a skin disease and curable through the skin alone. Mottled Eczema Remedy is applied directly to the diseased skin, the effect is marvelous and its results permanent. Do not delay. Mottled Eczema Remedy—Reliable Drug Co.

Cultivate Art of Cookery.
To cook is an art of arts, within, however, the reach of any who will take the trouble to master its alphabet and graduate into its higher branches. That one may become an artist by this study is not promised. Artists are the born, not made product. But a knowledge of cookery in the finer branches will be an aid to culture just as a knowledge of the languages helps to the comprehension of literature, and a knowledge of music to the comprehension of music.
